

Are you looking for a position that will allow you to make a major difference?

Are you passionate about improving the educational system in America?

Are you excited about joining a startup organization on the ground floor? Do you have what it takes to help grow an organization at an exponential rate?

Then come Strive with us!

Strive for College is a new approach to correcting the inequalities of college, focusing on the lack of information and motivation that many low-income high school students face. Strive for College's 'high-tech/high-touch' approach helps qualified students successfully identify and apply to their best-fit colleges and universities. Strive accomplishes this through a unique college search tool and individualized online curriculum complemented by a grassroots component of undergraduate student mentors.

With an impressive beginning and a strong support base, Strive has the potential to dramatically increase its impact over the next few years. Joining the Development Team offers a unique opportunity to significantly contribute, as one of the first employees, to the growth of an early stage startup non-profit organization, taking on significant responsibility for Strive's major development efforts.

Strive seeks an exceptional individual who is passionate about education and capable of significantly contributing to Strive's development efforts in a period of rapid growth. Strong results orientation and a no-quit attitude are essential to excel in this position. More information about Strive for College can be found on our website: www.striveforcollege.org.

Position

The Development Team is responsible for carrying out Strive's national and local development efforts. This person will help plan and implement a comprehensive long- and short-term development strategy and build systems to maintain relationships with foundations, corporations, and individuals. Most importantly, this person will write and manage grant proposals and build upon and access his/her network to raise significant funds. The Development Team is led by Strive's founder and CEO.

As a founding member of the Development team, you will have the ability to impact the roles and responsibilities of this position in order to best fit your working style and best serve and improve Strive Chapters. The position will likely require some travel and will definitely require impressive written and verbal communication skills.

Strive for College is located in the San Francisco Bay Area.

This is an exempt position with generous benefits and an incentivized salary.

Strive for College is proud to be an equal opportunity employer.

If you feel that you are the right candidate who can help Strive meet its ambitious financial goals, please submit your resume with a cover letter to jstiglitz@striveforcollege.org with the subject line 'Strive Development – [Applicant's Name]'.